PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Grow the Federation!

By Fred Ott

Now that another Federation show is part of CFMS history, we can once again turn our attention to those best practices used by many CFMS societies that others may consider when working to 'grow' their organization.

When remembering those earlier days of typewriters, carbon paper and erasers, I continue to marvel at the advances made in technology that we now take for granted: computers, spell-check, email, and database management tools, just to name a few. What an amazing transformation!

And, while it's understandable that we are often apprehensive about replacing the 'old' with the 'new', a modern rock and gem society cannot operate in today's environment without incorporating these new advances into our respective societies' activities, and it's so easy to do!

As with any successful business, a rock and gem society needs to communicate effectively and efficiently with its clientele (that is, the members of our societies). What does it take? Very simply: a computer (to replace the typewriter, carbon paper and erasers), access to the Internet and the use of a database management tool (such as Microsoft Access). If your society doesn't already have these tools, it is vital that these items be acquired as soon as possible. With these tools, your society can do each of the following in only minutes (instead of hours):

- Update your roster as members are added and deleted in only moments
- Produce an updated membership roster immediately thereafter
- Print mailing labels for each member
- Determine the birthdates for each member for "this month's newsletter"

- Send an email to everyone in your society
- Maintain ALL of your society's important information on a single flash drive (instead of storing thousands of pages of paper files in filing cabinets).
- Update and print copies of all your society's files, records and reports in moments!

And the list goes on! What previously took hours and days can now be achieved in only minutes!

If you're unfamiliar (or uncomfortable) with these new 'tools', rest assured that those 'growing' societies in the Federation are happy to share their knowledge and skill with you. Just ask!

Remember: rockhounding is MORE than a hobby; it's a PASSION!

- Fred Ott, President 2010

FIRST VICE PRESIDENT
Seeking CFMS Committee
Members for 2011

By Jim Brace-Thompson

As CFMS First Vice President/President-Elect, one of my duties at our November Directors Meeting in Visalia will be to present a full roster of committee chairs and committee members for 2011 and then hold a transition meeting that Sunday morning. I'm very happy to note we're already making excellent headway on this thanks to people who approached me to volunteer for various positions or who graciously agreed to continue with their current positions during conversations at our recent CFMS/AFMS Show and Convention.

To all current committee members: if we didn't get a chance to talk at the show, please let me know if you would like to continue in 2011 or if we should begin recruiting new blood for your current position (and if you are planning to step down, think about who you might recommend to take up your baton). I'll be making phone calls and sending emails as November draws closer, but I wanted to start putting the word out now. My thanks to everyone for the work you've been doing so very well in 2010, and here's to continuing the good work in 2011!

Hidden Treasures
AFMS/CFMS
Show & Convention
By: Loretta Ogden

I am as happy as anyone that belongs to the NOCGMS that the show is over. Having been involved in two other Federation Shows, one of them being AFMS/CFMS, I knew we were in for some work but this was harder than I expected. We believed that we were the mighty midgets. We had a shorter time than normal to plan and some changes in leadership, but we did it. The not really perfect a venues and the cost of them almost got us. The size of our club was definitely a handicap so we each did more than one job. After the show started we had plenty of helpful volunteers from other clubs. At that point we all breathed a little easier.

Being the Federation director I must have heard a 100 times, "so where is all this help you promised from the Federation?" They came in their cars, trucks and airplanes. They brought cases and displays. They helped serve food, manned information tables and even bused tables after the banquet. The officers did the Federation proud and their wives were angels sent to help me alone. The North Orange County Gem & Mineral Society is grateful and I personally owe you big time. I guess most of us know where all the help is now. Thanks
Looking forward to being a guest in Anderson.

Earth Science Studies
Report
By Marion Roberts

I am happy to report a good result on the Camp
Paradise in spite of the economy being what it is. Participating individuals totaled 98 paid weeks and a silent auction & sell-o-rama that were very active, made the 2 weeks very good.
We are already working on the registration for Camp Zzyzx and the spots are going fast.
Bural LaRue and I are working the South Central and South State to locate a new site so we can get the South program back in the spring,
November does not give us enough daylight time. Some prospects have been contacted and I intend to spend a few days down in that area to do some site evaluations.

Camp Paradise is secured for the 2011 program and will start a week later next year, in part due to the Federation Show in Anderson, Calif. The camps will be May 22, 2011 to May 28, 2011 and May 29, 2011 to June 6, 2011.

I want to thank all of the people that came to camp early and worked like beavers to do numerous repairs and clean up the area to make it a good place to come to. Also I want to thank all of the people that gave up free time to serve meals, wash dishes (trays) and eating utensils, & keep restroom supplies distributed. Lastly, and very important, the garbage collecting crew. This is heavy hard work.

My special thank you to all of the people who come to camp and enjoy what they do, and then go home enthusiastic, spreading the benefits of this kind of experience.

Education Thru Sharing
Rockhound of the Year
By Lorretta Ogden

This months nominations for Rock hound of the Year!

The Long Beach Mineral and Gem Society are proud to recommend and endorse Bruce Kelley as Our Rockhound of The Year 2010. Bruce Kelley is a valuable asset to our organization also Bruce started with the club about 10 years ago. He started out a little shy in the gem and mineral world. He has improved so much, people go to him and ask, "Hey Bruce, what kind of a rock is this." He also has fixed many machines in our shop saving us hundreds of dollars in time and parts.

He has served as President for two (2) years and has planned many a fine field trip, while serving on the Board of Directors and writing articles for our newsletter. We value him and are proud to have him as a member.

It was a near majority vote that he'd would receive this award and we hope you will bestow this honor upon him. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

William H. Hayes

FIELD TRIPS - NORTH

By Jonathan North

The field trip to the Austin, Nevada area was a great success! There wasn't a large turnout, probably due to its being just a week before the AFMS/CFMS Show. We couldn't have waited any longer as the high desert gets pretty hot in the summer and weather on the trip was perfect. The first day we collected Green and Purple fluorite that was easily found in old tailing piles. Whoever it was that mined the fluorite originally wasn't interested in the colored material and to our delight that is what we wanted. Later we made the trek to where snakeskin agate is scattered over a large area. The most work involved in collecting the snakeskin agate is to bend down and pick it up. Some large specimens were found and we ended the day with everyone satisfied with their bounty. The next day we stopped to collect Blue chalcedony in the Mt. Aerie area. That was another easy one where pieces of the agate have weathered out of the mother rock and are just scattered on the alluvial hillside below a claim on the hilltop. After a weekend of collecting, everyone headed back home with lots to talk about and to show for their time in the desert.

I plan on setting up another trip that would work for a large group, most likely after the summer heat. Suggestions are welcome. Meanwhile, if you are out on a field trip or just out hunting on your own, please be careful. Be sure to take all the supplies and water you need to survive on your own if you get in trouble way out somewhere. That in itself is a reason to go with others.

- Jonathan

I bring this to you because of its timely message. The Sierra Club, who was pushing this bill finally compromised and give us many areas of multiple use in the desert, now 20 years later, the California Wilderness Coalition, a newer organization but with the same goals is bring back those areas that were designated as multi-use and asking them to be turned into Monuments or Wilderness. Will it never end?

Excerpts from a letter by Senator Pete Wilson, R. California October 19, 1990

To: Carmelita Swarts, CFMS PLAC member, in CFMS Newsletter Dec, 1990.

Thank you for contacting me regarding your opposition to S-11, the California Desert Protection Act, as introduced by Senator Alan Cranston, D, California.

Even if you oppose this legislation, as I do, most of us can agree that the desert must be protected. As I have said many times before, the California Desert is a special place.

However, we need to reconcile the need for desert protection with the need to provide desert access for the hundreds of thousands of Californians who enjoy climbing, camping, rock collecting and other legitimate forms of recreation. Unfortunately, S-11 and the vast areas it would protect through wilderness designations quite likely would restrict access to the elderly, the disabled and very young children. California families must not be prevented from enjoying the desert and its resources.

S-11 would designate 7.9 million acres as national park or wilderness. By law, the designation of an area as wilderness would prevent wheeled vehicles, such as bicycles, from gaining access. This essentially means that a desert protected under S-11 could only be explored by foot, an unreasonable goal in many areas when one considers the extreme temperatures and vast open areas of the desert ecosystem.....

A copy of this letter in its entirety can be obtained from the CFMS Historian, Shirley Leeson.

JUNIORS ACTIVITIES
Encouraging Juniors to Display

By Jim Brace-Thompson

I think everyone would agree we enjoyed one terrific CFMS/AFMS Show thanks to the efforts of the North Orange County Gem & Mineral Society, who stepped in to fill a breach and host a show on short notice. If you haven't already done so, take a moment to pass along your thanks to the club!

One disappointment I had as Juniors Activities Chair—but at no fault to the hosting society—was the complete lack of exhibits by kids. At AFMS shows, the best youth exhibit (competitive, or noncompetitive if no youth has enter into competition) is awarded the Lillian Turner Award. The award, consisting of a certificate, a mineral specimen, and a $100 Series "E" Bond, is presented at the show awards ceremony. Even more important than the monetary value is the honor and recognition of receiving this award and the pride it can engender in your junior member for a job well done in assembling an excellent display. This is only awarded at a national show, so it won't be coming around to the CFMS again for another seven years. The last time we awarded it here in California was at the 2003 CFMS/AFMS Show, when Joy Robertson of Glendora Gems won it. The next national show won't be back this way until 2017. That's a 14-year period with no Lillian Turner Award winner within the CFMS. To look at it in an even grimmer way, we've lost the opportunity to award it to an entire generation of kids!

Operating on the principle of turning lemons into lemonade, let's take this as a reminder for us all to do more to encourage and help kids in our local clubs to share and display their collections. Displays by club members and guests have long formed the backbone of our shows, giving members opportunities to share their collections and lapidary skills and providing educational "eye candy" for the general public who come to our shows. But many clubs are reporting declines in the number of exhibitors at their shows. Such a decline will only continue if we don't take the time to encourage and teach the next generation to participate in this way.

One way to start is by making this a group activity, helping kids in your society assemble a group display at your next show. We've tried this with mixed results in my own Ventura club; in 2008 and 2009, we had a pretty decent turnout, although at our most recent 2010 show, only two kids showed up with material for the display case, which we then had to round out with "filler." Maybe we took it for granted, based on our previous results, and didn't promote it enough this year. No one ever said this stuff is easy! So let's all roll up our sleeves, set specific goals for including youth displays, and then work up and follow through on plans that will get kids excited and motivated to participate in this way at all of our local, regional, and national shows. Perhaps offer rewards for all kids who participate (crystals or fossils or mineral guidebooks – or the AFMS/FRA Showmanship badge), or turn it into a contest of some sort (a prize for the best fossil entered or the best crystal or the best self-collected specimen, etc.). In other words: let's make it fun!

CFMS PLAC South
Future of Rockhounding
Belongs to You
By John Martin

The annual convention and show is in the can for this year. It seemed to be a very successful event with very active meetings held during the convention and over 50 display exhibits of all facets of lapidary arts. Not much has changed in Washington , DC or Sacramento with respect to Public Lands affecting Rockhounds across

California and the country. The bills that were reported on during the convention are still in committees and going through the legislative process, so there is no or little change to report here. Collecting sites on public land across the country remain in danger of being removed from access or access may be limited to foot traffic only. This may make it difficult to gain access to some of our long established educational collecting sites now and for future generations of rockhounds and pebble pups. This mainly affects the public lands in the 13 western states where the largest amount of public lands exists. More and more of this land is being withdrawn from public access by legislation created and pushed through the process by environmental activist's special interest groups. On the surface some of these proposals appear to contain conservation language that addresses the preservation of the land, flora and fauna for future generations to enjoy. What is actually happening through this legislation is the creation of vast amounts of wilderness, monuments, and parks. While collecting of rocks, minerals and fossils are allowed in most wilderness areas, it is not allowed in most monuments and parks. Most of the non paved roads and trails across these millions of acres of public lands leading to our long cherished collecting sites will be closed to vehicular traffic. This will make collecting almost impossible to all but the most rugged of rockhounds thus removing reasonable access to the collecting sites from any Future Generations of American Rockhounds. As members of the California Federation of Mineralogical Societies, and members of local Gem and Mineral Societies and Clubs, we all need to take a proactive approach to preserve our collecting sites all across our country. As rockhounds and Federation members we need to identify our collecting areas and the roads and trails leading to these collecting sites. When legislation is proposed that may put those sites in jeopardy of being closed, we all need to contact our elected officials and communicate in a unified voice our opinion and opposition and ask that the site and site access be excluded from the closure legislation. As conditions change the CFMS PLAC committee will try to keep the membership informed to the changes that are taking place. The committee can not accomplish this task alone; it needs the help of each and every federation member. If there are any questions, concerns or of even more importance, when you become aware of any changes to collecting sites or collecting rules and regulations please contact any federation land use representative or this committee plac-south@antelecom.net. Another good source of current legislative information is the American Lands Access Association (ALAA) website www.amlands.org which has current information and links to Congressional Representatives and other land use activists.

Bee Alert, Bee Prepared!

Bee Alert, Bee Prepared! (Part 2)

Here are some tips to help you stay safe avoid contact with the Africanized Honey Bee (AHB):

- Check your property regularly for bee colonies. Honey bees nest in a variety of places, especially the AHB. Look for bees in work areas before using power tools. Check animal burrows, overturned flower pots, trees and shrubs.
- Keep pets and children indoors when operating lawn equipment. Attacks can occur when a person is mowing the lawn or pruning shrubs and accidentally strikes a nest.
- If you encounter a swarm, run in a straight line from the bees. Do not flail your arms since this can further annoy them. Get to the nearest house or car.
- Because bees target the head and eyes, cover your head as much as you can without slowing your escape.
- Don't jump in the water. Bees can wait longer than you can.
- Avoid excessive motion when near a colony. Bees are much more likely to respond to an object in motion than a stationary one.

If you're attacked:

- Call 9-1-1 only when emergency medical services are needed; if someone is stung many times or has an allergic reaction, call 9-1-1.
- Call if someone has becomes trapped in a building or car with many bees.
- Don't call 9-1-1 to have a hive removed. Call a pest control company.

Most reactions to bee stings are mild, but severe allergic reactions lead to 40 – 50 deaths each year. An allergic reaction to a bee sting can occur even if a person has been previously stung with no complications. Symptoms can include swelling in the face or an area other than where the sting occurred, hives or rash, itching, difficulty breathing and shock. Reactions usually happen within the first few hours. If you have ever had an allergic reaction to a sting, experts recommend carrying epinephrine, a prescription hormone given by injection to support blood pressure, increase heart rate and relax airways. If you or someone else experiences severe allergic reactions call 9-1-1 especially if you know you are allergic to bees and get stung.

CFMS SCHOLARSHIP

By Jennifer Haley

It was a joy for JoAnna and I to represent all of you who donated to the Scholarship Fund this year. We had the privilege of honoring one of our own, Frank Monez and some very bright students at the banquet who hold very bright futures. This fall we will have short articles for you about the geological field camps these students attended this summer which is always a treat. Being on the scholarship committee is a fun way to get more involved within the workings of CFMS. If you would like to join our committee please email me.

CFMS Tax Advisor
NEW CALIFORNIA EXEMPT ORGANIZATION FILING REQUIREMENT
By Mike Kokinos

We are just getting use to filing the IRS Form 990N if gross receipts are $25,000 or less. Beginning January 1 2011, these same organizations will also have to file electronically an annual information notice to California. The information to be filed will be similar to the Form 990N. Due dates will also coincide with the IRS.

Once the process is established, we will keep you informed.

I recommend visiting the IRS website listed herein. We sometimes lose sight of expectations and responsibilities for charitable and educational tax exempt organizations.

4. StayExempt.irs.gov

Want to brush up on your knowledge of exempt organization compliance requirements and ensure that your organization maintains its tax-exempt status? The IRS provides on-line training for tax-exempt organizations at www.StayExempt.irs.gov. The site includes a virtual workshop - web-based version of the popular Exempt Organization workshops - and a number of mini-courses on topics of interest to tax-exempt organizations.

2010 CFMS WEBMASTERS CONTEST

By Merryan O'Neill

Congratulations to Kendra Sherrer, Santa Rosa Mineral & Gem Society Webmaster!

The Santa Rosa Mineral & Gem Society web site placed 1st in this year's California Federation

Web Site Contest AND the American Federation Web Site Contest!

A total of forty-two societies entered web sites within the seven regions of AFMS. Ten of these entries were from CFMS societies. Outstanding participation! This is also the second year that the CFMS finalist placed first in the AFMS competition as well.

Here are the CFMS 2010 Web Site Contest results:

Webmaster	Society
1 Kendra Sherrer Society	Santa Rosa Mineral & Gem www.SRMGS.org
2 Stephanie Hagiwara Society	Oxnard Gem & Mineral oxnardgem.com
3 Jonathan North Society	Nevada County Gem & ncgms.org
4 Chris Whittier Society	Mother Lode Mineral motherlodemineralsociety.com
5 Anthony Ferraria Club	Culver City Rock & Mineral culvercityrocks.org
6 Jane Panico Castro Valley	Mineral & Gem Society of mgscv.org
7 James Fosse Mineral Club	Victor Valley Gem & vvgmc.org
8 Hiley Wallis Society	Tule Gem & Mineral tulegem.org
9 Harry Nichandros Gem Society	Contra Costa Mineral & ccmgs.org
10 Roger Mills Gem Society	South Bay Lapidary & palosverdes.com/sblap

These webmasters successfully created web sites that allow their societies to communicate with members and help inform the public. Thank you all for maintaining your society's sites throughout the year and for taking on the additional challenge of complying with the details of this contest in order to represent your society. I look forward to having even more societies join in next year. As Phyllis George, AFMS Ad Hoc Web Site Contest Chair, remarked in her AFMS newsletter article, "...Their web site will be better for having gone through the process of being judged, and their club may benefit from additional members."

The 2010 web site contest information is still on the CFMS site, and it will give you a good idea of what to expect. The 2011 Entry Forms, Score Sheets and Guidelines will be posted later this year. I'll email reminders to webmasters at that time as well.

The deadline for entering the 2011 CFMS Web Site Contest will be January 10, 2011. The results of the contest will be disclosed during the CFMS/Superior California Gem & Mineral Society Show, to be held May13-15, in Anderson CA.

ALAA Report
BLM to Clarify Rules for Public Lands Use
By John Martin

The U.S. Bureau of Land Management's Mother Lode Field Office wants public comment on interim rules affecting 231,000 acres of public land in 10 Central California counties, including Tuolumne, Calaveras and Mariposa. The rules give BLM officials guidelines to follow in case they have to cite someone on public land. The new sets of rules, which have already gone into effect, are being enforced by BLM Law Enforcement Officers. A copy of the new rules the BLM is using to clarify public use of public lands may be obtained at the website listed below.

http://www.blm.gov/ca/st/en/info/fed_reg_archives/2010/05/rules.html

A 60-day public review period started May 20, 2010. Public comments must be postmarked no later than July 12. They should be sent to the Mother Lode Field Office, Attention Supplementary Rules, 5152 Hillside Circle, El Dorado Hills, CA 95762, or submitted by e-mail to jjbarnes@blm.gov ; or by fax to 916-941-3199, attention Supplementary Rules.

The new rules governing the public use of public lands is very lengthy and will not fit in the space allocated in the newsletter. It is best to go to the website and get the rules and study them before venturing into our Public Lands managed by the BLM. Here is the bottom line for violating these new interim rules for public use of our public lands as stated in the documents provided by the BLM.
